

Endemic but not the end: the continued burden of COVID-19 in immunocompromised populations

Monday 18 September 2023 | 13:20-14:00 CEST
Auditorium 1, Valencia Conference Centre, Valencia

This symposium explores the ongoing impact of COVID-19 on people with immunocompromising conditions and the need for the expedited development of new strategies for COVID-19 management.

13:20–13:35

Staying informed in the endemic era

Ongoing challenges presented by COVID-19 for patients with immunocompromising conditions

Andrew Ustianowski MD, PhD

Chairperson
North Manchester General
Hospital, UK

13:35–13:50

Building a future for all

Exploring initiatives for developing urgently needed therapies for patients with immunocompromising conditions, in order to keep pace with the ever-evolving SARS-CoV-2

Roger Paredes MD, PhD

IrsiCaixa AIDS Research Institute, Spain

13:50–14:00

Discussion and Q&A

All

The information displayed is exclusively directed to healthcare professionals empowered to prescribe or dispense medicinal products. Please do not distribute in media, supporting materials or communication channels aimed at the general public. La información mostrada durante la reunión está dirigida exclusivamente a Profesionales Sanitarios facultados para prescribir o dispensar medicamentos. Por favor no distribuir en medios, soportes o canales de comunicación dirigidos a público general.