Limitation of liability

The information on the website is of a general nature. The information is not adapted to personal or specific circumstances, and can therefore not be considered as personal, professional or legal advice to the user.

Event Pilots makes great efforts to ensure that the information provided is complete, correct, accurate and updated. Despite these efforts, inaccuracies may occur in the information provided. If the information provided contains inaccuracies or if certain information is unavailable on or via the site, Event Pilots will make the greatest possible effort to rectify this as quickly as possible. Event Pilots cannot be held liable for direct or indirect damage resulting from the use of the information on this site. If you find inaccuracies in the information made available through the site, you can contact the site manager.

The content of the site (including links) can be adjusted, changed or supplemented at any time without notice or notification. Event Pilots gives no guarantees for the proper functioning of the website and can in no way be held liable for any malfunction or temporary (un) availability of the website or for any form of damage, direct or indirect, that would result from the access to or use of the website. Event Pilots can under no circumstances be held liable to anyone, directly or indirectly, in a special or other way for damage due to the use of this site or of another, in particular as a result of links or hyperlinks, including, without limitation, of all losses, work interruptions, damage to programs or other data on the computer system, of equipment, software or other of the user.

The website may contain hyperlinks to websites or pages of third parties, or refer to them indirectly. The placement of links to these websites or pages in no way implies an implicit approval of their content. Event Pilots explicitly declares that it has no control over the content or other characteristics of these websites and can in no way be held liable for the content or characteristics thereof or for any other form of damage caused by its use.

Applicable law and qualified courts.

The use of "cookies".

During a visit to the site 'cookies' can be placed on the hard drive of your computer. A cookie is a text file that is placed by the server of a website in the browser of your computer or on your mobile device when you consult a website. Cookies cannot be used to identify people, a cookie can only identify a machine.

"First Party cookies" are technical cookies that are used by the visited site itself and that aim to make the site function optimally. Example: settings that the user has made during previous visits to the site, or even: a pre-filled form with data that the user has made during previous visits.

"Third Party cookies" are cookies that do not come from the website itself, but do come from third parties, for example an existing marketing or advertising plug-in. For example, cookies from Facebook or Google Analytics. For such cookies, the visitor to the site must first give permission - this can be done via a bar at the bottom or top of the website, with reference to this policy, which does not prevent further browsing of the website.)

You can set your internet browser so that cookies are not accepted, that you receive a warning when a cookie is installed or that the cookies are subsequently removed from your hard drive. You can do this via the settings of your browser (via the help function). Keep in mind that certain graphic elements may not appear correctly, or that you will not be able to use certain applications.

By using our website, you agree to our use of cookies.

Google analytics

This website uses Google Analytics, a web analysis service offered by Google Inc. ("Google"). Google Analytics uses "cookies" (text files placed on your computer) to help the website analyze how users use the site. The information generated by the cookie about your use of the website (including your IP address) is transferred to and stored by Google on servers in the United States. Google uses this information to keep track of how you use the website, to prepare reports on website activity for website operators and to offer other services with regard to website activity and internet use. Google may provide this information to third parties if Google is legally required to do so, or to the extent that such third parties process the information on Google's behalf. Google will not combine your IP address with other data held by Google. You can refuse the use of cookies by choosing the appropriate settings in your browser. However, we would like to point out that in that case you may not be able to use all the possibilities of this website. By using this website you consent to the processing of data by Google in the manner and for the purposes described above.
