Data protection

Article 13 of the Draft Decree No. 196/2003

Purpose and modalities of compulsory data processing

Pursuant to art. 13 of the Privacy Code (Legislative Decree no. 196 of 30 June 2003), all interested parties are informed that the processing of personal and/or sensitive data provided by them is aimed at fulfilling legal and contractual obligations or obligations within the scope of the mandate given by the interested party.

Purpose and methods of optional data processing

The personal data may also be used for the sending of information and/or promotional material or for commercial communications concerning new products or updates and novelties of existing products. The above-mentioned data may also be used to send out greetings (Christmas, birthdays, etc.).

Type of data communication

Data communication is obligatory for the purposes mentioned in point 1). If the person concerned refuses to communicate all or part of this personal data or to give his/her consent to the processing of the data, this may result in the contract not being able to be performed or only partially performed or the order not being fulfilled.
The communication of the data for the purposes indicated in point 2) and the consent to this data processing is optional; any refusal to communicate the data will not affect the performance of the service.

Subjects to whom the personal data may be communicated

The personal data provided by you may be processed by our internal staff for administrative, fiscal, accounting purposes and for any other requirements provided for by law. We hereby inform you that the personnel who may become aware of your data has been appointed with a specific letter of request containing instructions for the processing of personal data in compliance with the law.
We would also like to inform you that any external service providers who may be entrusted with the processing of your personal data have been appointed with their own letter of appointment, which precisely defines the responsibilities and obligations relating to the processing of personal data.
This is without prejudice to the prohibition to communicate or transfer your personal data to third parties that are not strictly necessary for the performance of the services you have requested.

Data processing

Data processing may be carried out in paper form and/or by means of electronic modalities, in accordance with the CDP. no. 196/2003.

Rights of the person concerned

1. you may exercise your rights vis-à-vis the holder of the data processing in accordance with art. 7 of Legislative Decree no. 196/2003 - Right of access to personal data and other rights - at any time Text of art. 7:Art. 7 Right of access to personal data and other rights1. The interested party has the right to obtain confirmation of the existence or otherwise of data concerning him/her, even if not yet registered, and their communication in legible form.
2. The person concerned is entitled to receive the following information:
   - - Origin of the personal data
   - - Purpose and methods of data processing;
   - - logical system when computerised data processing is used;
   - - the data of the data controller, the data processors and the representative designated in accordance with article 5, paragraph 2;
   - - the names of the subjects or types of subjects to whom the personal data may be communicated or who may become aware of the data in their capacity as designated representative for the Italian territory, managers or agents.
3. The data subject may:
   - request that the data be updated, corrected or, if there is a relevant interest, supplemented;
   - request the deletion, transformation into anonymous form or the blocking of data processed in violation of the law, including those data whose storage is not necessary for the purposes for which the data were originally collected and processed;
   - certification to the effect that the operations as per letters a) and b) have been notified, as also related to their contents, to the entities to whom or which the data were communicated or disseminated, unless this requirement proves impossible or involves a manifestly disproportionate effort compared with the right that is to be protected.
4. The person concerned has the right
   - to refuse, on legitimate grounds, the processing of all or part of the personal data concerning him/her, even if pertinent to the purpose for which the data were collected
   - to refuse the processing of personal data concerning him/her, where such data are intended for the sending of advertising material or direct sales or for carrying out market research or commercial communication.
