

PERSONAS

Cheat Sheet

A persona is a rich description of a fictional person who exemplifies a specific group of people.

Personas help us achieve empathy and challenge new ideas.

1 PORTRAIT IMAGE

A photo or sketch expresses a persona's character, goals, or motivations. Avoid celebrities to prevent being biased and to increase authenticity.

Gender-neutral sketches or photos showing common attributes, goals, tasks, or behaviors can be used to avoid gender normative assumptions.

2 ICON AND COLOUR

For easy orientation in other tools, pick a matching icon and color. The small stripes on the icon mark that this is a persona – other than a simple stakeholder with no additional characteristics.

3 SHORT FACTS

Age and gender help to specify your persona further. Initials are used as a short name for easy overview in complex maps.

4 NAME AND DEMOGRAPHICS

A name can be used to identify a persona or refer to a persona in a team's conversations.

Demographic information, such as age, gender, or geographics, gives context to a persona and immediately creates a specific image of a certain target group for a design team. That being said, demographics often lead to stereotypical assumptions so it should be used carefully.

5 QUOTE

A quote summarizes your persona's attitude in one sentence. This is easy to remember and helps team members to empathize quickly with a persona. Ask yourself: what would help team members to empathize with this fictional person?

6 DESCRIPTION

There is not one recipe to describe a persona. Use this field for further stories and characteristics. What does a typical day look like? What are favorite places to go? What expectations does the persona have of our company? Add additional description fields as needed.

7 MOOD IMAGES

Mood images can be photos or sketches to give context to a persona's environment, behaviors, goals and motivations. What does their home or workplace look like? What's in their purse? What are their hobbies?
