Introduction The new global challenges concerning health issues have been raised in 2020. The health care systems of many countries have faced unforeseen difficulties; social restrictions have become a new reality which many people were not ready to. Health has become the focus of those fields that seem to have had little to do with it in the past: economics, business, politics, diplomacy etc. Thus, the issue of disease control and public health become a common urgent issue that requires flexible and effective solutions.

Purpose Creation of a platform for cooperation between educators, scientists, medical workers, businessmen, authorities, public activists concerning health care issues through:

- discussion of important questions, sharing experience of assurance, support, care and consolidation of people's health by specialists of different spheres,
- formation of complex view of problems and working out collective team decisions concerning health care issues,
- searching for and / or creation of strategies of realization of multidisciplinary approaches solving questions of people's health saving and improving,
- making public involvement in formation of a responsible attitude of each person to personal health and the health of others.
