Dear friends,

It is my great pleasure to have the opportunity to personally witness the 15th birthday of the Visegrad Fund, and to share with you this book, which we entitled simply and boldly—Visegrad Fund = 15!

In its pages, we summarize what the fund has supported since the first 25 Standard Grants were approved in 2000. There is a complete list of all grant projects awarded so far, and charts and tables summarizing them. There are key facts and figures pointing to the fund's development, and there is a small collection of photographs illustrating the wide variety of projects that we had the chance to support.

The data can naturally only partially represent the many dozens of thousands of people involved in cross-border contact who build institutional partnerships, start new civil initiatives or share their ideas with colleagues abroad, people who study or conduct research, publish or perform. In the 15 years we have proudly supported renowned artists, prominent scientists, leading think tanks and universities, international cultural centers and prestigious schools, but also grassroots initiatives, small community activities, plus projects run by small municipalities, local public institutions and individual citizens. We financed exchanges between civil servants from neighboring regions. Together with our partners, we began promoting innovation in the wider region of Central Europe under the title New Europe 100. Thanks to our support, Visegrad Insight and Visegrad Revue, two analysis and opinion journals, have served as a platform for a constructive debate on cooperation in the region on the governmental as well as non-governmental levels.

I would like to thank everyone who has helped shape the fund in the past 15 years for their support, especially our founders and core benefactors—the foreign ministries of the Czech Republic, Hungary, Poland and Slovakia. Also, I would like to thank the generous government donors that have financially contributed to our activities to date, namely the governments of Canada, Germany, Japan, the Netherlands, the Republic of Korea, Sweden, Switzerland, and the United States of America.

Last but not least, I would like to thank all applicants for their patience and all approved grantees, scholars and artists for their ideas and inspiration. Your ideas and contacts give the fund meaning.

Thank you all for your support! We look forward to having the chance to support your ideas!

Karla Wursterová

P.S.: I asked the fund's ex-directors, my predecessors and friends Urban, Andrzej, Kristóf, and Petr, about their thoughts on the past 15 years; the brief interview follows ...

historian, Executive Director of the fund (2009–12), currently serving as Deputy Chief of Mission at the Czech Embassy in Azerbaijan

KW → UR

Urban, you were the fund's first head, its founding father, and someone who significantly shaped its current structure, which has remained basically unchanged to date. How do you view the fund as it turns 15?

UR Yes, I'm very happy and indeed proud of the fact that I played such an important role in the establishment of the International Visegrad Fund. In formal terms, I was indeed the fund's first Executive Director. Fifteen years later, I see the fund slowly coming of age and becoming a young adult. There's great satisfaction in seeing how the founding objectives of supporting cultural and political cooperation between the four countries have developed into tangible programs with real results. Moreover, this has been achieved by respecting the key principles of transparency, inclusiveness and open communication with regard to both the general public and to fund applicants. It is equally important to acknowledge that the Visegrad Fund is a demonstration of the great spirit of cooperation and the strong cultural links that have long existed between the V4 countries. The idea behind the fund arose from the desire to achieve something practical from that existing spirit. I remain convinced of this basic concept.

KW → UR

What made you wake up in the morning when you worked for the fund?

UR As you said earlier, I'm considered by many to be the fund's founding father. That was therefore my compulsion to wake up in the morning, to nurture this fledgling organization, and to enhance the already existing cooperation between the V4 countries. I simply wanted to make it happen, to further develop cooperation in the fields of culture, science, education, art, tourism and youth. These are all very challenging but rewarding issues. To make it happen involved focusing on the commitments of the four governments to the concept of the fund while at the same time ensuring a sufficient level of budgetary contributions on their part.

KW → UR

Where do you see the Visegrad

Fund in the next 15 years?

UR The fund has gained significant recognition and has rapidly increased in size. However, there is a part of my original idea which has not quite materialized. I had envisaged a stronger institutional structure as a basis for the cooperation. One possible example of that is the structure utilized by BENELUX or Nordic countries which has been in existence since the end of WWII. There are a number of institutions within that union which ensure that there are functioning committees and working parties. So 15 years from now, I would like to see a stronger institutional structure for the International Visegrad Fund, a structure that would allow for more organized dialogue and activities particularly at the inter-parliamentary and inter-governmental level.

KW → PV

As a Czech diplomat you were personally involved in the preparation of the fund before it officially started, i.e., in 2000. How did you find your 'child' when you revisited 'Visegrád', becoming the fund's first Czech head?

PV To be exact, I have to correct your question because the serious discussions on the establishment of the fund were opened already in 1999. Maybe, the idea had already been 'in the air' but I remember the very day when Jiří Šitler, then director of the Department for Central Europe of the Czech ministry, opened the door to my office and told me: Why don't we establish a fund of a sort? The inspiration was clear—the Czech–German Fund for the Future had been running very well and playing an important role in Czech–German relations already at that time.

Concerning the initial structure, we knew that it had to be a very simple organization with very little running costs, because the initial budget was less than € 1 million. We counted every cent then, so it was big saving of resources when the first director Urban Rusnák lived in his own flat in Bratislava.

Speaking about the content of the activities, I remember we coined this working thesis: It is necessary to force them to co-operate. This meant to set the conditions in such a way that only partners from three V4 countries could receive the fund's grants.

KW → PV, AJ

How do you recall your early days heading the fund?

PV The 'horse' was out of the barn in 2000 and when I saddled it in 2009 it was in full gallop. I closed the first generation of the fund's directors. And each of them has left a significant footprint in the fund's history—Urban Rusnák created the solid structure and launched the first programs. Andrzej Jagodziński opened the door for broaden spectrum of cultural activities, whereas Kristóf Forrai led the fund more towards scientific research. My role was to develop this heritage and to try to find other space for activities.

AJ Precisely, everyone brought something new to the fund. Urban Rusnák built it out of nothing, 'out of banana boxes', as he once put it. I especially appreciated the creation of the Small Grants program. I think it matured into a brilliant counterpart to the Standard Grants offering seed money for even the smallest NGOs and grassroots initiatives. These projects might not make it to the front pages of major dailies or don't get broadcast in prime time, but the micro-work, often community-based has been crucial in the region and has served extremely well in the long run in starting all sorts of initiatives. Originally, only V4 entities could attain the funding. We tried to lift this limitation but I remember the skepticism in this respect, 'The fund is way too small to attract interest from outside of the V4 region,' and so on. Well, with the '3 out of 4' condition that Petr mentioned, we were able to reach out and support various cultural activities in prestigious venues in London, Berlin and elsewhere—and for a pittance!

KW → AJ

You mention culture. This is the field that grew most significantly during your mission at the fund. How do you explain the hunger for cultural grants? Why the big interest?

AJ I think given the overall number of cultural institutions in the region, which I think exceeds those from other fields, and given the common and overlapping traditions we have in the region, this was somewhat natural. And remember, there had been intensive contacts among cultural activists in the region long before the changes in 1989! The fund thus only helped formulate some of the ideas and contributed to their implementation.

KF → PV

Were you satisfied with the 'My Hero—Your Enemy' conference which you came up with and which took place in Prague in 2011? Or do you see additional 'reserves' in the project idea for the future?

PV Thank you for your question, Kristóf! I will never forget your positive contributions to the discussion, especially when you proposed to put a question mark at the end of the title as an expression of our historical optimism! Sure, the conference in Prague was the first step. Researchers from V4 countries met and demonstrated that we can discuss the various thorny issues in our common history without useless emotions. In this respect, I think we can be satisfied but we have not taken the following steps, yet. We haven't yet tried to preserve the good atmosphere in Prague in the Visegrad 'space' where various historical animosities have been surviving and where sometimes skeletons in our closets affect the everyday reality in an unpleasant or even even dangerous way.

KW Actually, there is a continuation—the conference will have a second edition in Brno this summer!

AJ → KF

Kristóf, you are a career diplomat who has been successfully representing Hungary abroad. How different was it to head an international organization and directly or indirectly represent four countries?

KF The situation is completely different in the structure of an international organization as in its framework we have to represent the position of each member state. In other words, in a bilateral diplomatic mission, the ambassador has only one 'boss', but as the head of the fund I had 'four bosses', the four ministries of foreign affairs. It may seem to be a very difficult situation with a slow decision-making process. In practice, however, there was an extraordinary good cooperation among my colleagues at the four foreign ministries; the work went absolutely smoothly. This is probably the main reason why I remember with great pleasure the three years I spent as the fund's head. I'm very pleased that I could get to know Urban, Andrzej, Petr and Karla who all have been very dedicated leaders of the fund. Needless to say, I experienced a similar commitment of all colleagues of the fund.

KW → KF

What projects do you recall that have pleased you the most?

KF Especially memorable to me were the projects implemented in the Western Balkans. It can be explained by the fact that in these activities we could present the helpful approach and solidarity of the V4 countries. We understood that our experiences may be useful for our partners in the Balkans not to make the same mistakes we made during the years after the change of the political and economic system and while establishing the market economy.

Current Programs—Grants

Small Grants & Standard Grants programs provide grants for small and mid-range projects with focus on the Visegrad Group (V4) region in the following categories: cultural cooperation, science and research, education, youth exchanges, cross-border cooperation, and promotion of tourism.

Visegrad Strategic Program (Strategic Grants) is designed to foster cooperation within the V4 region in areas which correspond with the priorities of the Visegrad Group as defined annually by the group's rotating presidency.

Visegrad Strategic Conferences is a subprogram of the Strategic Grants which funds conference-type events of strategic regional relevance.

Visegrad University Studies Grant (VUSG) is designed for universities with the aim to promote and support the development and launching of outstanding university courses or degree programs that deal with specific phenomena explicitly related to V4 countries.

Visegrad 4 Eastern Partnership program (V4EaP) comprises grant and mobility programs aimed to enhance the cooperation between the Visegrad region and the countries of the EU's Eastern Partnership (EaP).

Visegrad

PROGRAM

Flagship Projects program supports long-term projects of strategic character that contribute to providing access to V4 know-how with the processes of democratic transformation and integration and regional cooperation.

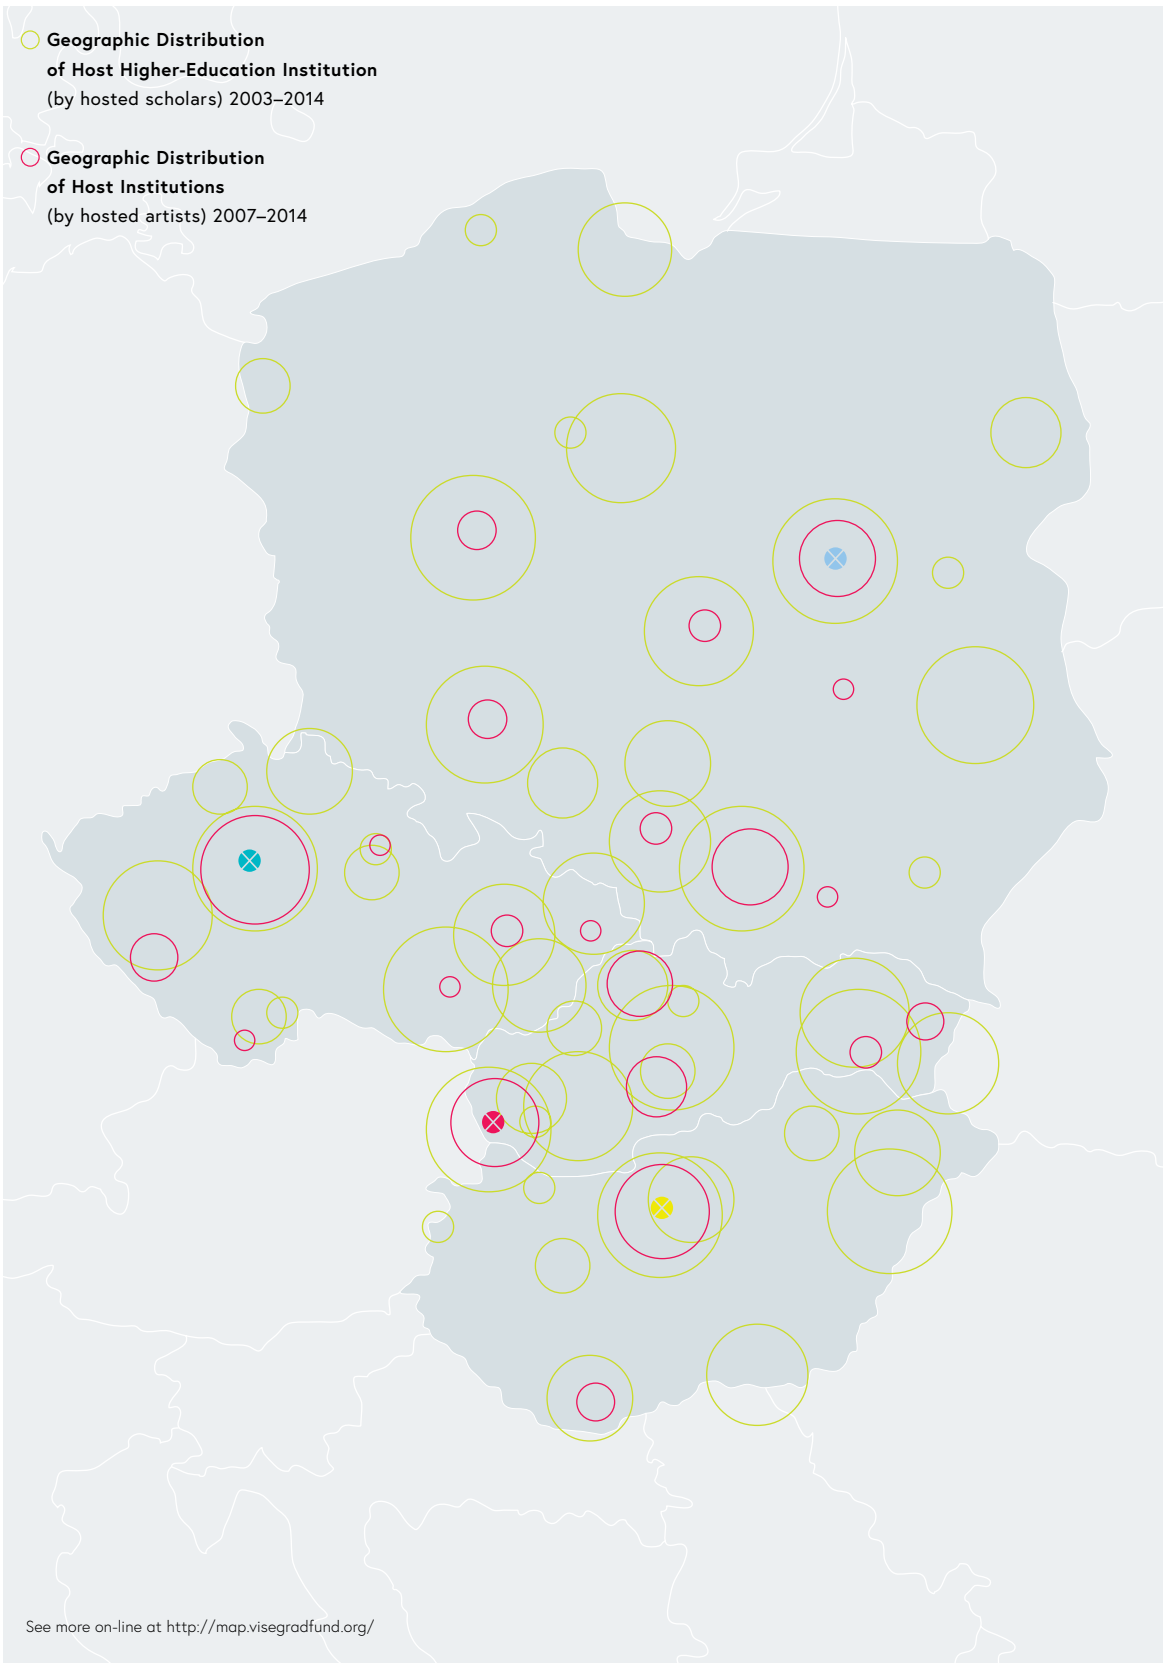

Extended Standard Grants support reform processes, political association and economic integration with the EU, building of institutional capacities, and development of civil society.

Visegrad+ program focuses on supporting longer-term initiatives that facilitate the V4 region's transformation and democratization know-how to the Western Balkans. Projects are solicited through separate calls for proposals.

Current Programs—Scholarships

Visegrad Scholarship Program offers funding for study/research project at any accredited higher-education institution to Masters and post-Masters (PhD/postdoc) scholars who are citizens of the V4 countries, and for foreign students (from the Western Balkans and the Eastern Partnership countries) to study in V4 countries. The support is awarded to both the scholar and the respective host higher-education institution.

Visegrad Scholarships at Open Society Archives offer research fellowships to scholars, journalists and documentary filmmakers at the Open Society Archives at Central European University in Budapest.

Visegrad–Taiwan Scholarships aim to facilitate academic exchanges by providing support to PhD candidates and postdoctoral researchers from the V4 countries who intend to study or conduct research in Taiwan.

Current Programs—Artist Residencies

Visegrad Artist Residency Programs allow both individual artists or artistic groups from the V4 countries to stay and work anywhere within the V4 region (and also in Brooklyn, NY). Both artists and the host institution are entitled to funding. Supported period of each residency is 3 months.

The Visual & Sound Arts chapter facilitates exchange of citizens of the Visegrad Group (V4) countries in the fields of visual and sound arts.

The Performing Arts chapter provides opportunities to host performing artists or companies from and in all V4 member states and contributes toward more intensive collaboration among freelance artists and performing arts institutions in Central Europe.

Literary Residencies provide provides support for work and mobility of talented literary residents and aims at creating a platform for information exchange and support the development and promotion of V4 literature in Central Europe.

Residencies in New York allow visual artists from the V4 countries to stay and work in Brooklyn, New York City.
