

2 day open program Relationship leadership

Lead Yourself.

Shine Leadership

Relationships that create synergy are more beneficial than a path of independent individuality.

Synergy of relationships 1+1=>2

How often do you experience a synergistic effect in relationships?

The biggest opportunity for a mutual growth can be found in relationships. Do you know what keeps us healthy and happy as we go on through life? According to the 75-year-long, and still ongoing, study by Harvard University, it is precisely relationships.

Why choose this program?

- Learn the values and laws that fundamentally shape and influence our relationships.
- Know how to apply the knowledge on how to build and nurture relationships at all levels.
- Go through a process that leads to a greater understanding, respect and trust in your relationships.
- Learn how to create a mutual environment that is attractive, supportive to growth, performance, and collaboration.
- Learn specific inspirational tips on how to build relationships and foster mutual trust.

Who is it for?

All managers, leaders, team leaders and their partners, and all those who want to tap the full potential of relationships.

Content

- Learn the values and laws that fundamentally shape and influence our relationships.
- Know how to apply the knowledge on how to build and nurture relationships at all levels.
- Go through a process that leads to a greater understanding, respect and trust in your relationships.
- Learn how to create a mutual environment that is attractive, supportive to growth, performance, and collaboration.
- Learn specific inspirational tips on how to build relationships and foster mutual trust.

In this two-day workshop you will learn to apply key principles to improve the level of your relationships. We will "train key principles for healthy relationships".

Often, we focus only on our individual performance, achievement and personal responsibility. Therefore, we have limited attention and space to create personal relationships. The willingness to cooperate is reinforced by empathic openness and an interest that creates a sense of trust and closeness. REMEMBER: everything improves much faster through attention, interest and conscious training than by repeating bad habits that disrupt our relationships.

Maybe you don't know that...

- Empathy and respect are like oil in a machine and well-oiled machines work better.
- Organizations can improve performance through personal development of their employees and thus improve their work habits and self-confidence.
- By adopting a relationship-oriented approach, as a leader, you can gain greater mutual trust and improve the long-term sustainability of your teams.
- We all need to feel respect, mutual trust and support for a better cooperation, performance and a happy life.

„If we pay enough attention and care to our relationships, they will flourish. And thanks to this, we will do great both at work and our personal life“.
