AIF national work at height conference

The Access Industry Forum (AIF) has announced that its national 'Working at Height: Access for Life' conference and exhibition will take place on Thursday, 14th November, at the AJ Bell Stadium, Barton-upon-Irwell, Salford.

From designing for access and the role of virtual reality to mental health awareness and managing risk, this unique event - to which PASMA will be a major contributor - will bring together a solid line-up of expert speakers to address the issues and topics set to shape the future of work at height.

Speakers include:

- Andy Gay, chief inspector of construction at the HSE.
- Gordon Maddan, assistant director, Office of Product Safety & Standards.
- Alan Burge, façade & maintenance leader, Arup.
- Steffan Groch, solicitor and chairman of the Health & Safety Lawyers' Association.
- Dr Karen McDonnell, occupational health & safety policy adviser, Royal Society for the Prevention of Accidents.
- Alison Thewliss MP, chairman of the All Party Parliamentary Group on Working at Height.
- Paul Glaze, commercial manager, Hire Association Europe.
- Chris Debrick, project manager, Transport for London.
- Brian Parker, business development manager, AFI-Uplift.
- Tom Price, senior farm safety adviser, National Farmers' Union.
- Jason Anker, Paul Blanchard and Dylan Skelhorn, ambassadors for the No Falls Foundation.

The conference will be chaired by Dr Shaun Lundy, chartered safety and health practitioner, chartered building engineer, visiting scholar at the University of Greenwich and HSE Myth Buster.

The event is organised and managed by the AIF, the forum for the principal trade associations and federations involved in work at height. Each organisation represents a different sector of the access industry and fosters and supports codes of good practice, equipment standards, training, education and knowledge.

Members include: Association of Technical Lightning & Access Specialists (ATLAS), British Safety Industry Federation (BSIF), Edge Protection Federation (EPF), Fall Arrest Safety Equipment Training (FASET), International Powered Access Federation (IPAF), Industrial Rope Access Trade Association (IRATA), Ladder Association, National Access & Scaffolding Confederation (NASC), Prefabricated Access Suppliers' And Manufacturers' Association (PASMA), Specialist Access Engineering And Maintenance Association (SAEMA) and the Work at Height Safety Association (WAHSA).

Anyone wanting to register their interest in attending and receiving information in advance of bookings opening, should visit www.accessindustryforum.org.uk/conference.

No Falls in Swansea

The South Wales Safety Groups Alliance annual conference took place on 3rd April at the Liberty Stadium in Swansea. 'Preventing injury and ill health at work' attracted over 100 delegates and included a presentation by Hannah Williams on behalf the No Falls Foundation - the national charity supported by PASMA - highlighting the risks associated with working at height and the importance of industry standards and guidance.

The keynote address was delivered by Martin Temple, chairman of the HSE board, and was followed by presentations from Louise Hosking of IOSH, Gavin Thomas of the Mid and West Wales Fire and Rescue Service, and Peter Pery of Dwr Cymru Welsh Water. The conference was chaired by the HSE's head of field operations, Wales and the Marches.

The South and West Wales Safety Group is one of more than 70 occupational safety groups in the UK affiliated to the Royal Society for the Prevention of Accidents and has over 90 member organisations, from small businesses to large industrial enterprises, together with a range of larger and public sector organisations.
